The secure connection between education and culture is described by Vivekananda. He said that the evolution of consciousness does not end with mind; rather it expands to superior consciousness called consciousness of truth, super-mind, Dynamic Divine, God consciousness, or Super consciousness. This superior consciousness gives a leeway of the outlook emergent evolution of man into superman. On the other hand Aurobindo defined the Man as conscious of his personality, cannot be ignorant and upheld that Integral Education must emphasize the psychic, physical and mental aspects as denoted by the matter and spirit. Vivekananda was being consistent with the philosophy of advaita and of Sankaracharya. Aurobindo's education on integral Yoga highlights the highest survival an aware being. To present his philosophy to audiences in the West with the roundabout pledge that it was appropriate for those who had become too stylish to believe in God Vivekananda Lectures on Raja Yoga Vivekananda measured that he was in attending a religious system which was balanced and scientific when he said that no faith or belief is required to the carry out of Raja Yoga. Aurobindo is further traditional and more thoughtful in his schooling on reliance. It require scarcely be mentioned that the puzzling and hard writings of Aurobindo were not created with trendy demand in outlook and there is no suggestion that Aurobindo was predisposed in the production of his system by the thoughtfulness of what men and women accustomed by the assumptions of a scientific age would make of his teaching. It has been seen that belief in God is essential to Aurobindo's system; confidence, in the sense of such trust, is a pre-condition of Integral Yoga. Aurobindo's ideas required the necessary ease which won well-liked hold up for Vivekananda. Aurobindo effort was to communicate the methods and insights of yoga to a entire tendency of modern thought and to a broad choice of religious. Vivekananda and Aurobindo were both; prejudiced by the West, but stand for fairly dissimilar models of dialogue western patters of thought and belief.

1. Introduction: Two prominent scholars who not only inspired but directed human being and formulated the way of education to attain the very motto of Life i.e: to attain NIRWANA. Though the philosophy of NIRWANA was nowhere same as that was enshrined in Hindu mythology. In connection to the VEDIC educational system which became dormant at the age of Great charioteer of modern education, Swamiji believed that the soul by itself was pure and all-knowing. But, through wrong actions the soul loses its transparency and is covered by the darkness of ignorance. Through correct actions, the soul moves towards self-awareness and acquires the ultimate knowledge.

2. Objectives:
1. Education Philosophy of Sri Vivekanand
2. Educational Philosophy of Sri Aurobindo.
3. Effect of Sri Vivekanand to Sri Aurobindo’s Philosophy of education.
4. Comparative discussion of Sri Vivekanand and Sri Aurobindo's Philosophy.
5. Conclusion.

2.1. Sri Vivekanand’s Educational Philosophy
Swami Vivekananda's philosophy is Sri Shankara's Advaita itself. The core belief of advaita is that the Jeevatma and Paramatma are one and the same. Vivekananda has made this advaita vision the fundamental tenet of his educational vision. It is when the Jeevatma joins with the paramatma that its limited knowledge becomes infinite. For this union, Swamiji suggests four paths –

The Jnana Yoga, Bhakti Yoga, Karma Yoga, the Raja Yoga.

According to him, man travels from a condition of lesser knowledge to a higher one and not from untruth to truth. His other outlook is that no knowledge emanates from outside. Each soul is complete in itself and represents of the godly Self and by itself it hides the holistic knowledge within itself.

The perfect Guru helps the student to understand this hidden flame of knowledge. Swamiji’s another strong argument is that no one can teach anyone else anything new. His theory is that the Guru, who resides within the self starts to function with the help of the external Guru. Like all exponents of Vedanta, Swamiji believed that the soul by itself was pure and all-knowing. But, through wrong actions the soul loses its transparency and is covered by the darkness of ignorance. Through correct actions, the soul moves towards self-awareness and acquires the ultimate knowledge (jnana sakshathkara). Swamiji believed that education is not just the collection of information. The aim of education is to mould the life of a person, which should lead to man-making and also to consolidate of relevant facts. Vivekananda's philosophy of education is based on universal principles of morality and ethics of the value of education.

Vivekananda says that without education no self-realization is possible. Vivekananda uses the term Brahman or Atma to mean Truth or Reality. Brahman is synonymous with God. To him, self-realisation is the ultimate aim of life and of education. To him, morality implies conscious, deliberate action for the good of humanity. His doctrine of ‘karma’ implies freedom of action.

So his educational philosophy is a combination of knowledge and action. In Vivekananda's educational philosophy, the general and special aims of education have the single function of enriching the pupil's personality. In answer to the present problems of India he pleads for the creation of a philosophy which gives equal importance to the claims of spirit and matter. To him, diversity is as real as unity. Matter is only ‘veiled spirit’. Thus he creates a metaphysical synthesis reconciling the claims of spirit and matter and makes it one of the chief bases of his philosophy of education.

2.2. Aurobindo’s Educational Philosophy
Aurobindo's philosophy comes under the category of idealism. Like Vivekananda, Aurobindo believed that the innermost truth is the soul. Aurobindo too believed that the ultimate aim of education was the emancipation of the soul. But, the idea that ‘humanity would evolve into an ideal society’ was his unique contribution. His educational system was meant to create this ideal society. Aurobindo's philosophy is not just a philosophy based on God

5. Whereas Sri Aurobindo believed in realism of being and consciousness. All beings are combined in the one self and spirit but separated by confidence of consciousness and reality in the intelligence. Trained people to turn out to be obedient of their truthfull self and sense the incidence of religion airborne within them. Intelligence spirit while spending each and every moment of their lives. If a person desires to practice bliss then he must strive to find out the superior spiritual nature. When a person discovers his true self and the power of divinity lying within it brings about a go up in his level of consciousness.

awfully disciplined and have an integrated personality. Teacher must have the wonderful attitude in order to be able to exact an ideal attitude from one's pupils. Teacher should be able to eliminate his ego, master his mind and develop an insight into human nature. Teacher should plow along with the pupils.

2.5. Conclusion:
From the above discussion one may infer that with so much dissimilarity both exponents had different theories and approaches to modern education for Indian natives. Though they may be regarded as the opposite side of coin yet both completes each other and together become perfect and most suitable way to educate the countrymen with a modern outlook outside and much needed Vedantic Seed of culture, moral, humanism and tolerance towards other religions, nationals and color. The perfect blend of both will provide the most suitable way for individual development on universal lines of brotherhood, complete self consciousness, harmonious relationship of teacher and Student, Human with nature and so do of ‘ATMA’ with ‘PARMATMA’. This will produce such supermen having complete knowledge of Western Logic with idealistic core of Spiritual Oriental East.
