ABSTRACT
Kolanu Bharathi Temple is the abode of Sri Bharathi. This place is a locally famous pilgrimage destination. It has an ancient Saraswathi temple worshipped with the name of Bharathi. A small perennial stream forms a water body (kolanu) near the Bharathi temple. The word “Kolanu” (in Telugu) with usage over the years has become “Kollam”. That is how the temple is known as “Kollam Bharathi”. In the same temple complex also has seven temples dedicated to Siva (Sapta Linga Kshetram). Siva Ratri is a major festival here. It also has beautiful waterfalls. This temple is nestled in the hills of Nallamala forest. It is around 10 km from Kothapalle. The nearest village is Sivapuram about 4 km away. People who visit there should obey many rules and regulations there. They should be sacred meat and should not scarify animals there. They should not smoke or drink in the premises and should not have non-vegetarian food there.

Later this Kolla has become Kollam and later called Kollan and later it became Kolan-Bharathi.

History of temple: In Kolan-Bharathi along with Saptasiva-layas, Charughoshini river is present. In 11th century, during the region of Janamejaya, this temple was built. In front of the temple SriChakradharini is present as special event. From the surrounding mountains from the heights, the river Charughoshini will flow and absorbed near the feet of goddess Saraswathi (Fig-A). If anybody takes bath in river, their sins will go way. In this place there are seven Siva temples, one towards east, three towards north, three towards south. In all these temples, there was Eka dhwaja Pillar and one Nandeswara. This temple is from the time of Chalukya and even before that time, some history tells that it from the time of Mahabharatha and Janamejaya. This temple is facing towards north and it is also Garbha Gudi and Mukha Mantapas. Here even gills are attached recently.

Here Kolan-Bharathi is located on blooming lotus in the Aasanos Padmaasana and her Jatamakuta. This goddess has hangings and necklaces up to belly and has four hands, with Abhayahasta and Ankusha in right hand and books in the left hand. She has Aksharamala and Paasankusa. By seeing all these we can find out that the goddess is Saraswathi clearly, those children who are not mentally developed according to age will take the darshan of this goddess. Any children if they do darshan of this goddess their intelligence will be developed. If small children or infants start their education, here then will become good and famous scholars. Devotees believe in this manner.

Behind the Siva temples (Fig-B), there is a neem tree and below that the Kshetra palaka of Kolan-Bharathi called ‘Bhairava’. is located and receiving prayers and poojas of devotees (Fig-C). Bhairava is the god of people living in those surroundings. Whenever they are in difficulties then pray Bhairava and clear their mokku after their prayed work is completed.

To the left of Kolan-Bharathi temple, there is a bilam called ‘Terubilam’ there is underground way for this bilam. There is a story which is of folk type and is famous in this area nearer to this place there is Alampur-Jogulamba, Sangameswara Kaamakshamma, and in Musalamadugu there will be Durgam Ankamma, all these three goddess reach Kolan-Bharathi through this bilam from the underground passage and four of these go to Srisaila Kshethra where Bhramarambastayas and after that by early in the morning, they reach to their own places. This story is famous over there.

Every year in the month of Aswayuja Devi Navarathti Ustavas, in the month of Kartikham, in the month of Maagha Buddha Panchami, specific, specific Ustavas will be done for the goddess. Prathyekathaka poojas in the month of Kartikham and on the day of Pournami in that month vishesa poojas are done, even in Maha Sivaratri also jaathara will occur.

People who visit there should obey many rules and regulations... there. They should be sacred meat and should not scarify animals there. They should not smoke or drink in the premises and should not have non-vegetarian food there. If they cross their rules these honey bees will come and attack them. Many people faced it. So everyone who go there should be neat and sacred.
